Candidate Statement:

I have a simple statement to be chosen for this position: I can deliver at two very important levels: verbally and in writing. It will definitely support the cause of PECG. Verbal experience: I have been teaching and delivered lectures and presentations in front of large audiences. I have been serving as a motivation speaker and a media person in past. I am not shy of talking in front of an audience, which is an asset to serve in this position. In writing, I have over 40 publications. I have been writing proposals, reports, papers, etc. throughout my life. I know how to write, which will be an asset to this position. Additionally, I have completed my PhD, i.e. the degree in which we are taught how to identify problem, look for already available solutions, find gaps, look for plausible solutions and present conclusions. One's major does not make any difference, all PhDs are expert in this modus operandi. No other degree in the world is taught this for so many years. I believe this ability will also be very effective for this position.
